Camelview elementary fire panel can not distinguish between dirty detectors and a fire condition. The system and all devices are cleaned and inspected annually however, like anything else devices get dirty as the instructional year goes on and the panel miss identifies a dirty detector for an actual fire condition, sounding the alarm. To my knowledge Madison has been working on a resolve for over 5 years at a great loss of time trouble shooting, loss instructional time (staff and students exiting the building as required , not knowing if it is a fire or not) and after hour responses by fire department, contracted security and on call employees.

Cerberus Pyrotronics, model MXL was installed prior to December of 1996. The 17 year old system has been evaluated by numerous contractors all have recommended full replacement.
